

Who is to blame?

Guilty, of course, who's at fault?
Not I, how could it be me
Why is that everyone is never
The one to blame, that's ones fame to claim that no one wants
What happened to truth and honesty?
It disappears as soon as
Your blamed for something small or big most people
Are too small to admit it

© Gayle Weisman, August 2002