

If not now --- When?

Life is too short to let the good times

Slip away

That is why they say, there is not time like the present

Certain things come only one time around

Grab it, reach for the stars, hold on and never let go!

Take a chance it might never be there again

For you'll never look back and see

Your tracks covered by someone else